

The Book of the Marital Covenant

Chapter 1 — Of Adultery and Unfaithfulness

1:1 The wife who lies with another shall be an abomination; her marriage is annulled, and she shall be excommunicated.

1:2 The husband who lies with another shall be an abomination; his marriage is annulled, and he shall be excommunicated.

1:3 The wife who persists in union with a guilty husband shall be an abomination; she shall be excommunicated.

1:4 The husband who persists in union with a guilty wife shall be an abomination; he shall be excommunicated.

1:5 If the innocent spouse reconnects with the guilty, both shall be abominations and excommunicated.

Chapter 2 — Of Seed and Bearing Outside the Covenant

2:1 The husband who donates his seed to another is an abomination; his marriage is annulled, and he shall be excommunicated.

2:2 The wife who bears a child through another womb is an abomination; her marriage is annulled, and she shall be excommunicated.

2:3 The wife who aborts her child is an abomination; her marriage is annulled, and she shall be excommunicated.

2:4 The husband who forces abortion upon his wife is an abomination; his marriage is annulled, and he shall be excommunicated.

2:5 The wife who bears a child not of her husband is an abomination; her marriage is annulled, and she shall be excommunicated.

2:6 The woman outside the covenant bearing the husband's child is an abomination; the marriage is annulled, and he shall be excommunicated.

Chapter 3 — Of Lies and Falsehoods

3:1 The wife who lies of her virginity is an abomination; her marriage is annulled, and she shall be excommunicated.

3:2 The husband who lies of his virginity is an abomination; his marriage is annulled, and he shall be excommunicated.

Chapter 4 — Of Sexual Violence

4:1 The husband who abuses his wife sexually is an abomination; his marriage is annulled, and he shall be excommunicated.

4:2 The wife who abuses her husband sexually is an abomination; her marriage is annulled, and she shall be excommunicated.

4:3 The sexually abused spouse who reconnects with the abuser is an abomination; let them be excommunicated.

Chapter 5 — Of Abandonment

5:1 The husband who abandons his wife is an abomination; his marriage is annulled, and he shall be excommunicated.

5:2 The wife who abandons her husband is an abomination; her marriage is annulled, and she shall be excommunicated.

5:3 The innocent spouse who reconnects with the abandoning guilty is an abomination; let them be excommunicated.

Chapter 6 — Of Sexual Refusal

6:1 The husband who refuses sexual union without holy abstinence is an abomination; his marriage is annulled, and he shall be excommunicated.

6:2 The wife who refuses sexual union without holy abstinence is an abomination; her marriage is annulled, and she shall be excommunicated.

6:3 The spouses who reconnect despite sexual refusal are abominations; let them be excommunicated.

Chapter 7 — Of Giving Without Receiving

7:1 The spouse who gives pleasure while the other refuses is an abomination; the marriage is annulled, and the refusing spouse shall be excommunicated.

7:2 The spouse who reconnects after giving without receiving is an abomination; both shall be excommunicated.

Chapter 8 — Of Receiving Without Giving

8:1 The spouse who receives pleasure while refusing to give is an abomination; the marriage is annulled, and the non-giving spouse shall be excommunicated.

8:2 The spouse who reconnects after receiving without giving is an abomination; both shall be excommunicated.

8:3 Let no mercy be granted to the receiving-only spouse, for they have polluted the covenant and dishonored the sacred bond.

8:4 Let all faithful observe this statute, that the covenant remains pure and no one benefits without giving in turn.

Chapter 9 — Of Holy Abstinence

9:1 The couple who abstain in imitation of Saint Joseph and Saint Mary shall be honored; their marriage shall remain intact.

9:2 Any act outside the covenant contrary to these statutes is an abomination; the marriage is annulled, and the guilty shall be excommunicated.

Chapter 10 — Of Enforcement and Permanence

10:1 Let all excommunications be permanent until repentance is found.

10:2 Let all annulments be instant and irreversible.

10:3 No guilty spouse may remarry any former spouse.

10:4 Innocent spouses who reconnect with the guilty are polluted; they shall be excommunicated.

10:5 Excommunication preserves the sanctity of the covenant and the purity of the faithful.

Chapter 11 — The immutable Eternal Covenant

11:1 When they say unto you until death do us part there is no true death except the second death

11:2 only if your husband or wife is cast into hell shall there be a parting

11:3 Our Lord has said we shall be like angels in heaven unable to marry or be given unto marriage

11:4 But our Lord will not stop who are already married From being married in heaven For intimacy God has ordained

11:5 and he has said it is good God will not take away what he is deemed good God will not rip apart what he is deemed to be together

11:6 The true Widow is the one whose husband or wife has been condemned to hell They are free to remarry

11:7 But ones whose spouse who dies but is not damned is not truly dead

11:8 they are not permitted to remarry and if they do they shall be excommunicated

11:9 the second death is the true death And the first death is a new beginning

[Why the serious Quasi-scriptural style format Because marriage was the first thing God ever did and it needs to be taken with more seriousness than anything else Also this makes it easily quotable]